47 EXT. JOHNNY'S HOME - NIGHT

47

In an ugly ramshackle house near an abandoned barn or mill, we see Johnny mulling around the building with his old gang. He was just released from prison after serving several years for grand theft auto and other assorted crimes.

JOHNNY 55ish, Becky Jo is not happy Johnny's back.

BECKY JO

Johnny, why can't you wait for another week. you just got out of prison two weeks ago. You can't just make the girls part of this. You'll drag them down with you.

Johnny, fresh out of prison, covered in tattoos, very buff and even meaner since his release.

JOHNNY

Shut up Becky Jo. Let's go girls! You're going to be late for work again. Come on, move it.

(to Becky Jo)

I've been planning this for some time. Fast cash and nobody gets hurt.

SHELBY, Oldest daughter of Johnny and Beck Jo.

SHELBY

We're coming geez. I don't feel good, and I don't want to do this Johnny.

JOHNNY

Get in the car. This is the night. Be on your game, understood!? Darby, get out here!

SHELBY

What if they find out I'm part of it. What if I screw up?

(Darby finally comes running out)

JOHNNY

You won't. Just do what I told you. You remember?

SHELBY

I call you as soon as I see Doc grab Tommy Boy for more bottles.

JOHNNY

And then what? Darby?

DARBY, younger daughter of Johnny and Becky Jo.

DARBY

Once they go outside we distract any of the bartenders and bar backs for a couple of minutes.

JOHNNY

Good. Two minutes. Now let's get going and don't forget!

BECKY JO

I don't like this Johnny. I don't like this at all. Way too soon!

JOHNNY

Shut up woman! Now get back in the house. Fellas? Be ready when I get back. We need to be set up early!

The girls are not very happy as Johnny squeals out of the drive and away.

Becky Jo looks at the men hanging around and drinking the shine and staring at her, and she turns away in disgust, and heads back inside. Waving Johnny on as if to say, "I give up".
